

Master of Education in Elementary Studies: Grades K-6

CAEP Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation

Teaching Degrees Leading to State Licensure and Certification

Teaching isn't just a job; it's a calling. If you're looking to become a teacher and have a bachelor's degree in another field, WilmU has master's degree programs to meet your needs. Several teaching degree programs are available that qualify you for state licensure and certification to teach in the public school system.

Accredited Teaching Degree Programs With Optimum Flexibility

WilmU's College of Education and Liberal Arts is accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP). Many WilmU education programs have also been recognized by professional associations, such as the Association of Childhood Education International. A choice of day, evening and online classes allows these affordable education degrees to fit into your busy schedule.

Learn From and Alongside Engaged Practitioners

Each WilmU master's degree program in education is taught by expert faculty who are active practitioners, well-versed in the challenges facing educators in modern American schools. Your instructors and fellow students will form a professional network of local educators you can call upon throughout your career.

The Choice of Top Educators

More than 3,500 current Delaware teachers have graduated from Wilmington University, including 12 of the last 16 Delaware Teachers of the Year. We're proud to be the choice of so many local education leaders.
