

Master of Education in Reading

CAEP Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation

Become a Literacy Leader Through the M.Ed. in Reading

Take your passion for literacy and learn to lead in your school or district as a reading interventionist, reading specialist or literacy coach. This comprehensive master's degree in reading — also available 100% online — will prepare you to identify specific reading issues and provide instruction for success among children and adults. This program is for licensed teachers who wish to become Delaware reading specialists.

Nationally Recognized and Accredited Master's in Reading

The WilmU College of Education and Liberal Arts is accredited by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP). This affordable master's degree in reading is nationally recognized by the International Literacy Association (ILA) and meets the ILA standards at the reading specialist level.

In-Depth Reading Courses Led by Active Practitioners

A balanced reading specialist curriculum focused on practical approaches explores the foundations of reading and writing instruction, examines effective assessments and inspires students to create a literate environment that celebrates diversity. You'll learn from seasoned educators who understand today's education landscape.

Comprehensive Reading Specialist Experiences at All Levels of Licensure

Enjoy unique program features — such as the six-credit course Diagnosis and Correction of Reading Difficulties, which allows you to see the complete intervention process with the same individual at two different academic levels (including Elementary, Middle School and High School). Field experience in reading specialist classrooms brings learning to life by combining the study of strategies with hands-on application.
